and Mechanical Society of Fredericksburg, which opens on the fair grounds here to-morrow. The entries have been larger than over before in many of the departments. Especially is this true of the ladies' department. Yet women take great interest in the Fredericksburg Fair, and to their influence is largely due the success which has rewarded the efforts of the society each succeeding year.

A crack troop of the United States Cavairy stationed at Fort Myer has arrived on the grounds, and is prepared to give exhibitions each day of the fair, morning and afternoon, consisting of daring riding, fancy drills, graceful manoeuvres and racing by the fearless riders on high-spirited steeds.

A tournament is scheduled for the first day beginning at 2 P. M., and a number of entries have already been made. There will be four prizes, all well worth contending for, and the crowning of the queen and maids of honor will take place on the grandstand immediately after the riding.

Major R. R. Powell will deliver the charge to the knights.

A feature of the fair will be an address by a woman at the Farmers' Institute, not only to the girls and grown women, but to the men, on certain lines of agriculture and domestic arts. This

Johnson, of the Virginia Truct Station at Norfolk: Dr. N. S. Mayo, veterinarian of the V. P. L. and crofessor S. B. Heiges.

A big Confederate veteran reunion on the third day will appeal to many. This has become an annual event in connection with the fair, and is looked forward to with plassure by many per-connection with the fair, and is looked forward to with pleasure by many persons. Confederate veterans will come from all the surrounding country. Some of them bring their wives and other members of their family. The reunion is always a happy one, and this year the program includes a parade, exercises on the grandstand at the fair grounds, when United States Senator Claude A. Swanson will address the veterans, and a big dinner to all veterans.
